

BUT THE SHOW GOES ON

MEMBERS of the Wimborne Drama Club faced a problem ten days before they were due to stage three one-act plays in the Church House, Wimborne, tonight, Friday and Saturday.

Mr. Clifford Cowling, the club's stage manager and Jack-of-all-trades, became ill.

There was some talk of cancelling the show because of this set-back, but members decided it was too late to do anything about changing their plans and made up their minds that the show would go ahead as planned.

During recent days members have rallied round and helped to prepare the Church House stage for the show.

The club should provide an evening of laughs, for two of the plays, The Man in the Bowler Hat and Holiday Eve, are comedies while the third The Tea Cosy, is a comedy-thriller.

On the same nights Ferndown Sports Club's drama section will be staging Book of the Month in the Ferndown Modern School. This comedy by Basil Thomas should prove popular with those who enjoy humour with their entertainment.

Producing the play is Mr. Martin Bellchamber and there are eight in the cast.
